

ABSTRACT OF THE INVENTION

An image forming method characterized in that a plurality of toner images which differ in color is formed as superposed; a plurality of the superposed toner images is simultaneously transferred onto a sheet of recording paper; the turbidity of toners of each color which form a plurality of the toner images is less than 60; and the maximum turbidity difference among said toners of each color is 5 - 45.